EXHIBITS

Thru February 21. Barbara Mosher, Art As I See it. Acrylic. "The once silent tools are the messengers that communicate to me, how to tell the story. My art is filled with color. Sometimes joy, love, or beauty and sometimes deep or heavy emotions show their way. Whatever the feeling I have when I pick up a brush, I try communicating that to the world." Encinitas Library Gallery, 540 Cornish Drive. 760-753-7376. www.barbaramosher.com

Thru February 21. Joyce Schleiniger, Inner Realities I. Stoneware Sculptures. A combination of human forms with abstract elements in three dimensional compositions using a variety of colors and textures to accentuate the visual message of our need for inner beauty, balance and creative realities. Encinitas Library Gallery, 540 Cornish Drive. 760-753-7376. www.artisticfountains-byjoyce.com

February 21-April 4. Barbara Mastro, American Music. Acrylic Paintings. The exhibition celebrates nature in an abstract format that expresses the form and color of a particular scene. Encinitas Library Gallery, 540 Cornish Drive. 760-753-7376. barbaramastro@gmail.com

February 21-April 4. Susan Osborn, Wings and Whimsy. Glass Sculptures. Assembled from found objects in tribute to angels, birds, and altars, the artworks invoke mystery, and the wonder of fairytales and myth, by taking something old, and making it new. Encinitas Library Gallery, 540 Cornish Drive. 760-753-7376. www.osbornart.com

Thru March 8. Jason Adkins, Pretty Dirty Things. Oil and Acrylic. Filled with wafts of colors that referencing abstract gesture, the landscapes play host while the expressionistic brushstrokes infer dependence and autonomy through color and harmony. Encinitas Community Center Gallery, 1140 Oakcrest Park Drive. 760-943-2260. <http://jason-adkins.com>

Thru March 8. Roz Light, Quilt of Encinitas. Ceramic. In the garden, and from the sea, the tile paintings are of the local historical flora and fauna of Encinitas. The same concept is applied on quarry tiles, but it is accomplished with a different method from design to glazing tile and murals. Encinitas Community Center Gallery, 1140 Oakcrest Park Drive. 760-943-2260. www.rozlight.com

Thru March 8. Joyce Schleiniger, Inner Realities II. Stoneware Sculptures. Encinitas Community Center Gallery, 1140 Oakcrest Park Drive. 760-943-2260. www.artisticfountains-byjoyce.com

Thru March 9. Kyrstin Nihill, The Seven Seas. Encaustic. This series of paintings was inspired by the movement of the ocean. Sometimes fierce and pounding, other times gentle and rippling, these paintings use color, composition and texture to capture the energetic movements of water. Encinitas Community Center Gallery, 1140 Oakcrest Park Drive. 760-943-2260. www.knihill.com

Thru March 9. Elizabeth Moore, Ceramic Houses. Ceramic Sculptures. The ceramic houses are hand built stoneware and decorated with mason stains, oxides, glazes or acrylic paints. The form of the house inspires because it is simple, yet it expresses many different personalities. Encinitas Community Center Gallery, 1140 Oakcrest Park Drive. 760-943-2260. emitchellmoore@yahoo.com

Thru March 18. Siro Cugusi. Paintings. The work is the result of a layering process of materials and color, a constant experiment, with this amalgamation (sometimes his paintings will simultaneously include oil, acrylic and spray paints, enamel, markers, pencil, and pastels) creating unique and differentiated alchemic reactions. IN STUDIO: 1/21-2/18. Every Thurs., Fri. & Sat. Lux Art Institute, 1550 S. El Camino Real. 760-436-6611. www.luxartinstitute.org

Thru January 28. Chris Burkard. Photography transformed our Education Pavilion with vibrant images depicting adventure and exploration.
